Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 20 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Largely mild on Saturday with rain spreading south.

Today:
Brief bright intervals first thing before cloud and rain push south during the day. Turning breezier, particularly along coasts and over high ground, but remaining largely mild. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain clears south through the evening. Skies clearing behind this and the wind becoming northerly, allowing it to turn colder with a frost in sheltered locations. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Sunday:
Following a chilly start, a good deal of sunny intervals present on Sunday. Staying dry but blustery, particularly along coasts. Feeling noticeably colder than of late. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
A cold and frosty start on Monday but staying dry with sunny intervals. Somewhat cloudier on Tuesday, with temperatures rising closer to average, and risk of rain later on Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.